

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

No book can be a sole project. Becoming an author affects other people as well. I would like to acknowledge the help I have had from all the friends and shooting colleagues who have helped me (knowingly or unknowingly). There are so many of you, but there are a few I would like to mention by name.

Firstly my wife Sandy; without her support, and spelling and grammar corrections, all those articles and this book would never have been finished.

Budleigh Salterton Rifle Club for getting me started in the sport.

Ray Jacklin for encouraging me to start shooting again at Hampton Rifle Club.

John Mackay of Bedford who stopped me selling my rifle in 1973.

Bedford Rifle Club for providing the facilities to enable me to keep shooting.

Bryan Tye who helped with historical information.

Tony Lincoln for being my model.

Cambridgeshire Shooting Association for the loan of their range.

And last but not least, all those shooters who came to me with their problems and solutions. I have passed on as much of that information as I think will help other shooters.
